

INTRODUCTION

Chapter 1. Faces and spaces of prostitution

Nina Peršak & Gert Vermeulen

1. Faces	13
2. Spaces	15
3. Structure of the book	17
4. References	23

PART I: PROSTITUTION IN ACTION: PAST AND PRESENT

Chapter 2. Prostitution in world cities (1600s-2000s)

Magaly Rodríguez García

1. Introduction	25
2. Defining prostitution and prostitutes	26
3. Societal reaction and legal situation	28
4. Working spaces and conditions	34
5. Demographic data and causes of prostitution	41
6. Conclusion	46
7. References	47

Chapter 3. Europe's legal red-light districts:

Comparing different models and distilling best practices

Ronald Weitzer

1. Introduction	53
2. Red-light districts	54
3. Study sites and methods	55
4. Differences between three European cities	56
4.1. Amsterdam	56
4.2. Brussels	58
4.2.1. Workers and managers	59
4.2.2. Assessment	61
4.3. Antwerp	61
4.3.1. Reforms	61
4.3.2. Antwerp's red-light district today	63
4.3.3. Assessment	65
5. Conclusion	65
6. References	68

Chapter 4. Prostitution and its relations with informal economies

Dominique Boels

1. Introduction.....	71
2. Prostitution and informal economy: An intricate relation	72
3. Belgian policy on prostitution	74
3.1. Federal: Abolitionist approach with criminalisation of third parties	74
3.2. Local: De facto legalisation	76
4. Methods.....	78
5. Prostitution in Ghent.....	79
5.1. Prostitution types	79
5.1.1. Street sex work	79
5.1.2. Window prostitution	79
5.1.3. Bar prostitution	81
5.1.4. Private prostitution	81
5.1.5. Escort prostitution	81
5.2. Informal economic activities	82
5.2.1. Undeclared labour and income	82
5.2.2. Pimping	84
5.2.3. Ancillary activities and its participants	86
6. Conclusion and discussion	88
7. References.....	92

Chapter 5. Economic factors of prostitution: Money, nature, crisis

Nina Peršak

1. Introduction.....	101
2. The economy of prostitution	101
3. Global financial crisis and its effects on prostitution.....	103
4. Economy as nature:
Sex for benefits within biological market theory	106
5. Economy as structure
(within which the prostitute displays its agency)	109
5.1. Structure and agency.....	109
5.2. Societal reactions (to economy and prostitution).....	111
6. Tentative projections: two-tiered increasing of vulnerability	113
7. References	115

Chapter 6. Talking about prostitution and the representation of a (problematic) group: Identifying frames in Flemish news coverage on prostitution

Katrien Symons & Kristien Gillis

1. Introduction	121
2. On frames and policy	122
2.1. The social/moral order frame.....	123
2.2. The oppression/sexual domination frame.....	124
2.3. The pro rights/sex work frame.....	125
2.4. General problems.....	126
2.5. Relevance in current policy debates, illustrations.....	128
3. Framing prostitution in the Flemish media	130
3.1. Data and method.....	130
3.2. Results.....	131
3.2.1. Prostitution in neighbourhoods	131
3.2.2. Prostitution networks and trafficking	134
3.2.3. Other fragments related to prostitution	135
3.3. Conclusion in the light of prostitution frames.....	136
4. General conclusion	137
5. References	139

Chapter 7. Regulating street prostitution as a public nuisance in the “culture of consumption”: A comparative analysis between Birmingham, Brussels and Milan

Anna Di Ronco

1. Introduction	145
2. The (gentrified) post-industrial urban space	146
2.1. Spaces of consumption and pleasure.....	147
2.2. Centripetal spaces.....	148
2.3. Spaces of deprivation.....	149
3. City selection	149
4. Birmingham	150
4.1. Spaces of consumption and pleasure.....	151
4.2. Centripetal spaces.....	152
4.3. Spaces of deprivation.....	153
4.4. Summary.....	154
5. The Brussels Capital Region	154
5.1. Spaces of consumption and pleasure.....	155
5.2. Centripetal spaces.....	156
5.3. Spaces of deprivation.....	157
5.4. Summary.....	158
6. Milan	158
6.1. Spaces of consumption and pleasure.....	159

6.2. Centripetal spaces	160
6.3. Spaces of deprivation.....	162
6.4. Summary.....	162
7. Explaining the difference: Cultural factors	163
8. Conclusion	165
9. References.....	166

Chapter 8. Analysing the use of the trafficking victim archetype by Brazil and the Iberian countries

Julie Lima de Pérez

1. Introduction.....	173
2. The evolution of the “sex trafficking” mythology	174
3. The use of the term “trafficking victim” as a de facto label of deviance	177
4. The construction of the Brazilian victim archetype	178
5. The evolving trafficking narrative of the Brazilian woman.....	180
6. Confronting the use of the victim archetype in Brazilian and Iberian narratives	183
6.1. Brazil.....	183
6.2. Spain	187
6.3. Portugal.....	189
7. Conclusion	191
8. References.....	193

Chapter 9. The framing of prostitution as victimhood and violence for criminalisation purposes

Nina Persak

1. Introduction.....	199
2. Contemporary anti-prostitution discourse: Framing issues	201
3. Victimalisation of prostitutes	204
4. What is violent or criminally harmful about prostitution.....	208
4.1. Harm and wrongfulness.....	208
4.2. Harm of prostitution.....	209
5. Playing dress-up: New moralism in harm’s clothes.....	213
6. Concluding thoughts.....	216
7. References.....	218

PART III: PROSTITUTION POLICIES BEYOND MORALISM

Chapter 10. To punish or not to punish:
What works in the regulation of the prostitution market?

Alexis A. Aronowitz

1. Prostitution.....	223
1.1. Defining prostitution.....	223

1.2. The prostitution landscape.....	224
1.3. Earnings in prostitution.....	224
1.4. Prostitution markets.....	225
1.5. Violence against prostitutes.....	226
2. Attitudes toward prostitution.....	227
2.1. The oppression model.....	227
2.2. The empowerment model.....	227
2.3. Misconceptions and false claims concerning prostitution.....	228
2.3.1. The prostitution market is homogeneous	228
2.3.2. Prostitution is synonymous with human trafficking	228
2.3.3. Prostitution is violence against women	229
2.3.4. Prostitutes are traumatized and cannot choose to work in prostitution	229
2.3.5. Violence is omnipresent in prostitution	230
3. Regulating the prostitution sector.....	230
3.1. Full criminalization.....	231
3.2. Partial decriminalization: Limited legality.....	232
3.2.1. Prostitution is demand driven	232
3.2.2. The Swedish model	233
3.2.3. The Finnish model	233
3.3. Legalization.....	233
3.4. Decriminalization.....	235
4. What works? Limited legality vs legalisation or the “Swedish” vs the “Dutch” model.....	235
4.1. The impact of limited legality: The Swedish model.....	235
4.2. The impact of legalization: The Dutch model.....	236
4.2.1. Aims of the law	236
4.2.2. Regulation	237
4.2.3. Worker safety	237
4.2.4. Supply and demand	238
4.2.5. Positive effects of legalization in other countries	238
5. Critique of the Swedish and Dutch models.....	239
5.1. Criticisms of the Swedish model.....	239
5.1.1. Impact on male buyers	239
5.1.2. Is the decrease in street prostitution real?	240
5.1.3. Prostitutes’ rights are more limited	240
5.1.4. Street workers are less safe	240
5.1.5. Other harms caused by the law	241
5.2. Criticisms of the legalization model.....	241
5.2.1. Legal position of prostitutes	242
5.2.2. Social stigma	242
5.2.3. Abuses still exist	242
5.2.4. Emotional well-being of prostitutes	242
6. Does legalised prostitution lead to more human trafficking?	243

7. The way forward	244
8. Conclusion	245
9. References	246

Chapter 11. Self-regulation and public-private cooperation in the prostitution sector

Gert Vermeulen

1. Nuisance in the prostitution sector	253
2. Traditional municipal solutions	254
3. Vulnerability of the prostitution sector to human trafficking	256
4. Problematic blurring of prostitution and human trafficking policies	257
5. “Separation of markets” in the prostitution sector	258
6. Legalisation	258
7. Regulation	262
7.1. Government regulation	262
7.2. Self-regulation.....	264
8. References	267

Chapter 12. Client criminalisation for guilty knowledge of (trafficking for) sexual exploitation

Gert Vermeulen & Yasmin Van Damme

1. Introduction	271
2. Guilty knowledge of clients?	272
2.1. Guilty clients?	273
2.2. Guilty knowledge?	274
3. Client criminalisation in policy and practice	275
3.1. CoE/EU support for “knowing” client criminalisation.....	275
3.2. The UK.....	277
3.2.1. Policy background	277
3.2.2. Client criminalisation based on strict liability	278
3.3. The Netherlands	281
3.3.1. Policy background: Lifting of ban no undisputed success	281
3.3.2. Bill regulating prostitution and tackling abuses in the sex sector	283
4. Self-regulation and quality labelling of the sexual services market as an alternative basis for client criminalisation?	288
5. References	291

Chapter 13. Sex work, policy and empowerment in the media: Who’s talking?

Alexander Witpas

1. Introduction	297
2. Health promotion, empowerment and participation	298
2.1. Health promotion and the Ottawa charter	298

2.2. Health, power and empowerment.....	299
2.3. Ethics and effectiveness.....	300
2.4. Easy to preach, difficult to practise.....	301
2.5. Sex work activism and empowerment.....	303
3. A media analysis of sex work policy in Flemish newspapers.....	304
3.1. Methodology.....	304
3.2. Results.....	305
3.2.1. Who is talking	305
3.2.2. Abolitionism or legalisation and regulation	308
3.2.3. Focus on empowerment and participation	308
4. Conclusion and discussion.....	309
5. References.....	313

PART IV. CONCLUDING THOUGHTS

Chapter 14. Prostitution undressed: From discourse to description, from moralisation to normalisation?

Gert Vermeulen & Nina Peršak

1. Multidisciplinarity.....	315
2. Multi-frame analysis.....	316
3. Multi-actor perspective.....	318
4. Conclusion.....	318
5. References.....	319
List of contributors.....	325