

Table of Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Introduction	ix
1
From Duty to Moral Choice: Waiting for the Barbarians	1
Present-Tense Narration and the Ethics of Representation	4
The Magistrate: The Journey from Duty to Moral Choice	34
2
Facile Goodness and Shame: Age of Iron	61
Epistolarity: Death, History, and Writing	74
Confession: Self-Doubt and Problematic Love	81
Shame: Self-Reflexiveness, Social Questioning, and Moral Revelation	95
Purgation: The Elusive Character of Redemption	108
3
Sloth and Moral Integrity: Life & Times of Michael K	123
Narrative Strategies and the Ethical Encounter	127
History and Individual Trauma	155
4
Ideals, Sex, and Violence: Disgrace	179
Historical Guilt, Humiliation, and Morality	182
Self-Deception and Morality	204
Conclusion
The Moral Dimension of Resisting Narrative Closure	237
Works Cited	251
Index	265